JPN 101 Elementary Japanese I (4)

4 hours lecture per week

Comment: Previously JPNS 101.

JPN 101 introduces the basic foundations of the Japanese language that will enable students to acquire and develop language skills in speaking, reading, writing, listening, and intercultural communicative competence. This course is designed for those who have no prior (or very limited) knowledge of the Japanese language. Students will gain a basic level of proficiency to communicate in basic everyday situations on a number of familiar topics and begin to distinguish similarities and differences in communication styles in Japanese and English.

Upon successful completion of JPN 101, the student should be able to:

1. Identify the general topic and basic information in short messages, short conversations and presentations based on everyday events, very familiar topics and simple sentences where context is clear in spoken Japanese. Comprehension is limited to vocabulary and simple questions/statements related to everyday events, such as greetings, introductions, descriptions of rooms/housing, campus/towns, and daily schedule/activities. (Interpretive Listening)
2. Communicate appropriately in short sentences, ask for meaning of unknown words, ask simple questions, primarily by relying on memorized and set phrases, to function at a basic level in everyday events, such as greetings, introductions, descriptions of rooms/housing, campus/towns, and daily schedule/activities. (Interpersonal Speaking)
3. Present information appropriately in simple sentences in spoken or written form on everyday events, very familiar topics such as simple introduction of others, descriptions of rooms/housing, campus/towns, and daily schedule/activities. (Presentational Speaking and Writing)
4. Identify the general topic and basic information based on everyday events, very familiar topics and simple sentences where context is clear in written Japanese. Comprehension is limited to vocabulary and simple questions/statements related to everyday events, such as greetings, introductions, descriptions of rooms/housing, campus/towns, and daily schedule/activities that may appear in written materials such as profiles, blogs, and text messages. (Interpretive Reading)
5. Communicate appropriately and accurately in written form using short phrases and sentences in hiragana, katakana, and kanji, primarily by relying on memorized and set phrases, to function at a basic level in everyday events, writing self-introductions, simple memos, typing and posting daily activities. (Interpersonal Writing)
6. Identify products, practices, and values in one's own culture and in Japanese culture and use that knowledge to communicate and interact appropriately with native speakers (with cultural awareness). (Intercultural Communication)

JPN 102 Elementary Japanese II (4)

4 hours lecture per week

Prerequisite(s): A grade of "C" or higher in JPN 101 or satisfactory score on KCC language placement test or instructor consent.

JPN 102 continues to build a basic foundation that will enable students to acquire and develop language skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing in Japanese in a linguistically and culturally appropriate manner. Students will continue to develop intercultural communicative competence. Students will gain a level of proficiency to communicate in everyday situations on an increased number of familiar topics and distinguish similarities and differences in communication styles in Japanese and English. Students will attain the Novice Mid to Novice High level on the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) proficiency scale.

Upon successful completion of JPN 102, the student should be able to:

1. Interpret the general topic and information in short messages, short conversations and presentations that combine new and previously learned elements in spoken Japanese related to everyday events and familiar topics such as leisure activities, describing preferences, shopping, inviting and dining out, family members, physical condition, and memories. (Interpretive Listening)
2. Communicate appropriately in short sentences, ask common simple questions, to function in conversations related to everyday events and familiar topics such as leisure activities, describing preferences, shopping, inviting and dining out, family members, physical condition, and memories. (Interpersonal Speaking)
3. Present information appropriately in spoken or written form on everyday events and familiar topics such as leisure activities, describing preferences, shopping, inviting and dining out, family members, physical condition, and memories. (Presentational Speaking and Writing)
4. Interpret the general topic and information written in hiragana, katakana, and kanji in profiles, menus, postcards, short letters, simple journals, blogs, and text messages that are based on everyday events, very familiar topics such as leisure activities, describing preferences, shopping, inviting and dining out, family members, physical condition, and memories. Have a functional command of 90 kanji. (Interpretive Reading)
5. Communicate appropriately and accurately in simple text of a few paragraphs in hiragana, katakana, and kanji, integrating new and previously learned structures to write about the above-mentioned activities. Writing will include postcards, short letters, simple journals, blogs, text messages, typing and posting activities and events. (Interpersonal Writing)

6. Identify and begin to compare products, practices, and values in one's own culture and in Japanese culture and use that knowledge to communicate and interact appropriately with native speakers (with cultural awareness). (Intercultural Communication)

LAW 293S is a capstone cooperative education course involving an employer and the college that integrates classroom learning with supervised practical experiences related to a legal secretary career. This course provides opportunities that allow the student to apply and reinforce legal secretary skills learned in Legal Education courses in an actual legal office environment. Students will also have the opportunity to analyze their general and technical work skills as well as the business of law as learned in their courses. Job search skills are also emphasized.

Upon successful completion of LAW 293S, the student should be able to:

1. Apply job search skills in an internship or potential employment search.
2. Obtain and compare legal secretary-related work experience in a legal office to correlate with the skills and knowledge acquired in the classroom and evaluate its benefits.
3. Identify the personal qualities and work skills required of legal secretaries.
4. Apply and further develop knowledge of the law, legal secretary-related skills, and law office procedures.
5. Demonstrate and describe the ethical and professional practices used in the legal field.
6. Identify areas for improvement in general work skills and technical/legal-related skills through self-reflection.
7. Clarify and describe career goals.
8. Explain professionalism in the legal secretary field including lifelong learning, continuing legal education, professional organizations and membership, and national certification options and resources.
